

2018 Board of Directors Nominees

Board of Directors First-Term Nominees

ELSA CHIN

Elsa Chin is the head of Core Team for Global Philanthropy at JPMorgan Chase & Co. She oversees grants management, finance/budget, and data for the department. She works directly with senior leaders and closely with all grantmaking teams on matters related to the firm's philanthropic efforts. JPMorgan Chase annually invests more than $350 million to create pathways to opportunity so that individuals have access to the knowledge, skills, resources, and capital they need to secure their futures.

Previously, Elsa was a grants manager at the Helmsley Charitable Trust, managing more than $350 million a year in grants and leading a team that developed strategic program areas. Elsa started in philanthropy as the chief of staff of Newman's Own Foundation, where she developed and professionalized the grants process after the death of Founder Paul Newman.

Elsa began her career at Goldman Sachs, as an associate in the Corporate Treasury Group. She received a Master of Business Administration degree from The Leonard B. Stern School of Business at New York University.

Elsa is a board member of Newman's Own Foundation and a member of Philanthropy New York's finance committee. She has served on numerous working groups dedicated to foundation-related issues around tax and audit for the Internal Revenue Service.

BOARD RECOMMENDATION

Elsa has been involved in PEAK Grantmaking for as long as she's been in grants management—between six and seven years—and she has attended every PEAK Grantmaking conference during that time. She is a frequent presenter for PEAK Grantmaking and helped craft the Grants Management 101 materials for the annual pre-conference session. She also has served as a presenter for that session.

Elsa has a broad range of responsibilities within her portfolio and experience working with senior leaders across a large global company. She has a deep understanding of grants management and knowledge of rules and regulations. She would bring the corporate grantmaking voice and leadership that the PEAK Grantmaking board seeks.

IFY MORA

Ify Mora joined Margaret A. Cargill Philanthropies (MACP) in August 2018 as director, Program Operations. In this role, Ify works with program leadership and other cross-functional colleagues to ensure the effective implementation and improvement of MACP grantmaking policies, practices, and processes.

Ify previously served as director of Operations at the Barr Foundation. She joined Barr as an Associated Grantmakers Diversity Fellow in 2009 and then served in a variety of roles until her appointment, in 2014, as director of Operations. In that role, Ify was responsible for ensuring the smooth day-to-day operations of the foundation, working in close partnership with staff across the organization, and providing oversight to the operations and grants management team.

Ify holds a bachelor's degree in quantitative economics and Spanish from Tufts University and a master's degree in public policy from Harvard University. She chairs the 2019 Learning Conference Planning Committee for Grantmakers for Effective Organizations and is a member of the GuideStar Advisory Board and the Advisory Board of the Tisch College of Civic Life at Tufts University.

Ify lives in Eden Prairie, MN, with her husband, Osiel Gonzalez, and their dog, Chico. She is expecting their first child in May 2019.

BOARD RECOMMENDATION

Ify would bring a strong operations lens to the board. In her recent positions, she has helped elevate the role of grants management by advocating for it to be more integrated into program operations. She is eager to contribute this unique perspective to the board. Ify is well positioned to speak about the role of grants management in overall philanthropic operations.

Board of Directors Second-Term Nominees

SATONYA FAIR

Satonya Fair recently joined The Executive Leadership Council (ELC) as their new vice president/chief philanthropy officer. In that role, she will be responsible for the organization's philanthropic engagement strategy, ensuring that all charitable efforts support the ELC's mission of increasing the number of successful black executives – both domestically and internationally – by adding value to their development, leadership and philanthropic endeavors.

Prior to joining the ELC, Satonya served as director of Grants Management at the Annie E. Casey Foundation, where she and her team were responsible for the administration of more than $100 million in charitable investments annually. Satonya led the development of a customized grants management system, which included a comprehensive online grant portal. She concentrated on system innovations within her department and throughout the foundation—emphasizing the use of data to drive decision-making and accountability.

Before joining the Annie E. Casey Foundation, Satonya supported Citi's Global Community Development with responsibilities that spanned corporate and foundation giving, employee engagement and volunteerism, program development, and outcome measurement. Her roles at Citi included senior grants manager for the North America Community Grants Program and Community Relations manager at CitiFinancial.

Satonya earned her JD from the University of Cincinnati and her bachelor's degree in psychology and political science from Miami University (Ohio). Satonya graduated from the Council on Foundation's Career Pathways executive leadership program and is a certified Change Management practitioner. She is an active volunteer with many efforts, including PEAK Grantmaking, the Technology Affinity Group, the Association of Baltimore Area Grantmakers, and the Bridges Program in Baltimore.

BOARD RECOMMENDATION

Satonya successfully met all of the responsibilities of PEAK Grantmaking board service during her first term. She was elected co-chair of the board in 2017 and set a forward-looking agenda and tone for the board and staff. She is deeply committed to the mission of PEAK Grantmaking and philanthropy, generally. She displays leadership and innovating thinking at every turn. The PEAK Grantmaking board, staff, and membership would benefit greatly from her continued involvement on the board.

KERRI HURLEY

Kerri Hurley is director of Grants Management at the Barr Foundation. She supports Barr's staff and grantees through every stage of the grantmaking process. Prior to joining Barr, in 2000, she worked in consultant relations at State Street Research, in property management at the Druker Company, and in the office of Michael Connolly, former Massachusetts Secretary of State.

Kerri is an active member of PEAK Grantmaking, for which she served as New England co-chair for many years.

She currently serves on the advisory committee for the Summer Fund, a donor collaborative working to promote high-quality summer camps and programs for youth in Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, and Somerville, MA. Kerri holds a bachelor's degree in English from Salem State College and is a notary public.

BOARD RECOMMENDATION

Kerri successfully met all of the responsibilities of PEAK Grantmaking board service during her first term. She participated as an active member of the Strategy Team. In 2018, she expanded her leadership by assuming the chairmanship of the Audit Committee. During her tenure, she oversaw the 2017 audit, which was delivered with an unqualified opinion. Kerri is a champion for PEAK Grantmaking within the New England region, actively participating and speaking in regional meetings. She would be a continued asset to our work moving forward.
